

OWEN OPPOSES CURRENCY BILL

Measure is Liable to Have Some Hard Sledding Before It Passes—Several Changes May Be Made.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Unexpected developments in regard to currency reform legislation in the senate Tuesday promised serious complications for Pres. Wilson's plans for the passage of a currency bill at this session of congress. At a conference of democratic members of the senate currency committee, Chairman Owen, who has been considered one of the original framers of the bill now before the democrats of the house, made it clear to his associates, that he was opposed to several features of the bill, including the plan for 12 regional reserve banks, and that he would recommend important changes in the measure.

The results of the senate conference have been to leave the currency situation entirely open Tuesday night so far as the senate's probable action is concerned. Sen. Owen did not suggest a definite plan to his colleagues; but said he was opposed to the regional reserve bank plan; to the proposal to compel all National banks to enter the new federal system; and to other features of the bill as it was introduced by Chairman Glass of the house currency committee.

The attitude of other democrats on the senate committee, including Senators Hitchcock, O'Gorman and Reed, is such as to indicate that there will be material changes in the administration measure, if not a complete remodeling of it, before it comes before the senate for action.

Several members of the committee Tuesday night inclined to the opinion that the senate might ultimately be asked to consider some measure of a temporary character, similar to the bill recently introduced by Sen. Lea, democrat, which would amplify the Adrich-Vreeland emergency currency law, and so change its provision as to bring a form of special currency within the reach of all National banks.

Sen. Owen Tuesday night said he believed the chances to be held at the senate, and the changes that might be made in the currency reform plan, would mean definite action upon currency legislation at the present congress. Other senators said if a law were passed it probably would be of a temporary character.

TRUE FRIENDSHIP.

War Veteran Retires That Life-Long Friend May Have His Share of Military Honors.

True friendship has never been more aptly demonstrated than in the case of Gen. William H. Bixby (right), who voluntarily resigned as chief of engineers of the U. S. army so that his life-long friend, Col. William T. Russell (left), might be promoted to that important station. It had been Col. Russell's chief aim in life to obtain the post of chief engineers, but in order for him to reach this position it was necessary to create a vacancy. Gen. Bixby, his life-long friend, knowing of the colonel's ambition, made the sacrifice, asked for retirement and Col. Russell is now the new chief of engineers.
